Property Values Increased
Through Street Improvement

The acceptance Monday night by the council of the work of contractor Charles H. Brown of the street improvement on Dunn and Rheem avenues and portions of 13th, 16th, 17th, and 18th and 20th streets, brought to a finish the three contracts that Brown has run through in record breaking time.

The other two contracts were for the improvement of McLaughlin avenue, and Bissell avenue and intersecting streets.

The streets just improved by Brown are considered by the city engineer as the best in the city. The inspection on them was rigid, and the specifications were lived up to in every way.

Practically every street that was improved was much needed and the work is a big addition to the different sections, and will add much to the value of the property.

Where the streets were formerly mud holes in winter, the residents will now have fine paved streets.

Rheem avenue is a forty foot street and extends from Kearney to Twenty-third, and there is talk of having that portion east of Twenty-third connecting with

Mass Meeting

Members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, numbering 297 were present at the class initiation held in Woodman hall, with county aerics including Point Richmond, Crockett, Pinole, Martinez, Pittsburg, Antioch and delegates from Oakland and Berkeley present for the celebration.

State officers in attendance included State President H. W. Pulcifer of Oakland; District Deputy State President C. Sweeney and E. Silva of Pinole. The ceremony was conducted by Felix Baptisti, president of the local aerics.

The presidents of the various aerics made short addresses after which a banquet was served by the house committee composed of C. DeBolt, G. Starves and T. Chastani.

An invitation was received from the Pittsburg aerics to attend the dedication of their new hall and Columbus Day celebration, October 8 and 9.

Geo. Shaw To Go On Trial On Charge Of Defrauding Farmers

GOVERNMENT RELENTLESS IN HUNT
FOR MAN HELD TO HAVE USED
MAILS IN BOGUS SCHEME

The eternal persistency of a Government hunt for violators of Federal laws was illustrated in San Francisco yesterday in United States District Court.

HUNTED NINE YEARS

Secretly indicted by a San Francisco Federal Grand Jury June 24, 1919, on a charge of fraudulent use of the mails, G. W. Shaw, formerly of Richmond, was brought into court yesterday. Search for him had continued without pause for more than eight years and had extended over nearly every State in the Union, terminated with Shaw's arrest the other day in Atlanta, Ga. He was returned to San Francisco yesterday to face the charge, to answer to authorities who refused to forget him.

HELD FOR FRAUD

The specific charge against Shaw was that he defrauded several California farmers out of large quantities of farm products, consigned to him under the name G. N. Shaw Product Company, of Richmond, Calif. Those named by the Government as having supplied the company with butter, eggs, grain and other farm products, as the result of inducements in literature mailed them by Shaw, were F. Andrew Mueller, Giggs; Ward and Harper, Morgan Hill; F. E. Brown, Lincoln, and F. J. Cardozo of Sheridan. Shaw is alleged to have sold the goods and to have fled the State.

CONFUSION IN COURT

Shaw did not seem to be perplexed over the arrest, but he did show confusion over an amusing incident in the court room.

Through a slight mixup in records, Assistant District Attorney Ernest E. Williams brought Shaw before Judge St. Sure and asked for an order sending the prisoner back to Georgia. As a matter of legal formality, Shaw was asked if he had any objection to the proposal. He appeared confused at first, and then remarked:

"If your honor please, I do not quite get the idea. You see I just arrived here this morning from Atlanta."

WILL APPEAR MONDAY

Williams then realized that a clerk had given him the wrong set of papers for the prisoner at bar.

Shaw will appear before the Judge for arraignment Monday. He is in jail in default of $5000 bail.

Watson On Trial
In Oakland On Charge Today

MARTINEZ, Sept. 28.—Within a few hours after a grand jury indictment here against Major C. P. Watson of Big Pine, Inyo county, had been dismissed, information charging the former officer and A. J. Betker of Bakersfield with the reckless handling of explosives in Oakland was filed in the Alameda County Superior Court yesterday afternoon. Watson and Betker, at liberty on bail of $5000 each, are to appear in court tomorrow for arraignment and it is probable their trial date will be fixed at the same time.

Watson and Betker are accused of having left 700 pounds of explosives in a parking station in the center of Oakland over night during the transportation of it from Contra Costa to Inyo county.

New Berkeley-
Marin County
'Direct Auto'
Ferry Planned

Richmond Only Terminus Between Eastbay and
The Marin Side

A new direct auto ferry line between Berkeley and Marin county is projected by the Golden Gate Ferry company, it became known yesterday.

The Marin county terminus would either be at Sausalito or California City.

Engineering studies are now being made to determine which is the more feasible, it was admitted by A. O. Stewart, president of the Golden Gate Ferry Company.

RICHMOND ONLY LINK
At present the only direct connecting transportation link between the Eastbay and Marin county is via the Richmond-San Rafael Ferry Company, the Richmond terminus being 12 miles from Berkeley.

Otherwise the ferry must be taken from Oakland or Berkeley to San Francisco and then another ferry is necessary to Sausalito.

While plans for the new line are still only tentative, Stewart (Continued on Page 8.)

Former Richmond
Girl Success In Stage Dancing

Enice "Baby" Healey, former Richmond girl, is reported to be making remarkable progress at her chosen work of dancing for Franchon-Marco shows, Dan Reardon, manager of West Coast theatres in Richmond, received a letter yesterday from Miss Healey in which she said that she appeared in a new "idea" featured by Franchon and Marco, now playing in Los Angeles, and which will be shown in the bay district in about two weeks.

Miss Healey also was chosen to portray the role of ballet dancer in a new motion picture now being taken in Los Angeles, entitled "Symphony". Her work in the production was found to be of such quality that considerable more "footage" was allotted her part than had at first been intended.

Miss Healey was well known in Richmond before she left to appear on the stage.

Traffic Officer
Must Use Cycle

A low-slung classy roadster standing beside the highway need not in future start the heart of motorists palpitating for fear the cop will take after them. For in the future that roadster or touring car, as the case may be, will be occupied by an ordinary patrolman on duty.

Traffic officers throughout the entire state (and there are many of them who own and operate roadsters) yesterday received instructions from their "big chief", Frank G. Snook, to put away their four-wheeled chariots and return instantly to the motorcycles for patrol duty.

During the past few years Snook pointed out, there has been a tendency for the traffic police to forsake motorcycles for touring cars. The officers became so general that when Snook became motor vehicle chief nearly half of the traffic force were riding in automobiles.

EDDIE BURG IN HALF MILE SWIM
TO RESCUE MAN

"Old Timer" Goes Down
In Cold Spring at Clear Lake

Swimming a quarter of a mile to the rescue of a drowning man, overcoming his struggles and then swimming another quarter of a mile back to the launch from which he had jumped was the feat performed last Sunday by Eddie Burg, vice-president of Burg Bros., Inc.

A party of Richmond men were vacationing at the summer home of L. W. "Duke" Evans, superintendent of the Republic Steel Package company here at Clear Lake Thursday over the week end and had started across Sola Bay in a motor boat at the time the "old timer" dove off.

"OLD TIMER" DIVE OFF
When about a half mile from the shore Sam Hastings, an old resident of the locality, suddenly decided to show his prowess as a swimmer. He dove off the launch and struck out for the shore.

The motor boat went on without him and it was not until the boat entered shallow water where it was impossible to turn it, that it was noticed that Hastings was struggling a quarter of a mile behind.

BURG TO RESCUE
Burg, swam that distance and found that Hastings had developed cramps when he swam into cold springs in the lake. Hastings was purple in the face and going down for the last time as Burg reached him, and heaving down his strange hold, struck out for the boat.

In the meantime a dory had put out from shore to aid in the rescue, but its occupant had become so much excited that the oars slipped from the oarlocks at every stroke. Burg was forced to swim the entire distance back.

First aid measures were applied to Hastings and he recovered from his ordeal in short order.

Kiwanians Hear
Knowles Speak
On "Russia"

Dr. Tully C. Knowles, president of the College of the Pacific at Stockton and who has traveled extensively in Russia in the interests of religion and education, yesterday addressed the members of the Richmond Kiwanis club in the Hotel Carquinez. Dr. Knowles declared that Russia has not prepared for a purely Russian revolution but for an international revolution.

Favoritism for hand workers is the principle of the present Russian government, that that while placards decry Capitalism, there is a constant call for greater investments of foreign capital.

F. C. Shallenberger was chairman of the day and vocal numbers were sung by Mrs. L. Ayer with Mrs. Hooper at the piano.

Pin Causes Death Of Downer Thornton
In Oakland

Despite the efforts of a corps of physicians, Downer Thornton, nine-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Thornton, Jr., of Mira Vista, passed away last night at an Oakland hospital.

The child swallowed a beauty pin - that had become loosened from his dress and was taken to the hospital Tuesday afternoon where X-rays revealed that the pin had lodged in his stomach. It was at first believed that an operation would be unnecessary. The child grew worse yesterday afternoon. Dr. C. L. Abbott then summoned a corps of specialists and an operation was decided upon in an effort to save the child's life.

For a time he appeared to be recovering, but later took a turn for the worse. The end came at about 10:30 o'clock last night. Services will be held from the Wilson Kratzer chapel this afternoon and will be strictly private in accordance with the wishes of the parents who are prostrated with grief. Interment will be in Mountain View cemetery.

The child is the grandson of E. M. Downer, president of the Mechanics bank and only child of Mr. Thornton, vice-president of the bank, and Mrs. Thornton, who before her marriage was Miss Hazel Downer.

Girl's Claim

MARTINEZ, Sept. 28.—Ethel Leighton, whose true name is Frances Elsnore, wasn't kidnapped on the eve of the Victor Loucheud trial to prevent her from taking the witness stand against the engineer whom she accused of assaulting her.

COULDN'T STAND ORDEAL

The 23-year old girl told Judge H. V. Alvarado this morning that when the day for the trial approached she couldn't bear the thought of having to go through the ordeal again, of running the gamut of questions as to intimate personal affairs, so she just moved to an unknown address and kept out of sight until the Loucheud case was over and the man whom she accused of assaulting her was behind prison bars.

Blume of San Pablo; Harry and William O'Neill of Pinole; Charles O'Neill of Rodeo; Mrs. Lilly Owen of San Pablo and Mrs. Harry Mohering of Pinole.

CONFIRMATION
PLAN OF W. P.

Same Firms That Built
Antioch Span to Be On Espee Project

MARTINEZ, Sept. 28.—Patterned after the American Toll Bridge company's bridge across the San Joaquin river on the line of the Victor Highway east of Antioch, the proposed Southern Pacific railroad bridge from Martinez to Army Point will be the greatest span in the west and one of the world's largest bridges.

ANTIOCH MODEL

That the S. P. engineers plan to use the Antioch bridge as a model for the giant span here was revealed yesterday when it was learned that contracting firms which worked on the San Joaquin river span have been in conference with the railroad officials. In all respects the Bulls Head Army Point bridge will resemble the Antioch span, although the piers of the structure here will be spaced at wider intervals and the entire structure will be more massive. The same type of electric lift center span will be installed in the bridge here, the cost of which is estimated at close to $15,000,000 indicating the immensity of the project here as contrasted with the $2,500,000 Antioch bridge.

SAME FIRMS

The Missouri Valley Bridge Co. built the foundation piers for the Antioch bridge as well as the Carquinez span and the Duncan-Harrison Co., now engaged in making soundings for the Martinez bridge, also held important contracts for both of the American Toll Bridge spans.

W. P. SPAN SEEN

Coupled with announcement that the Western Pacific, now the operating owners of the Sacramento Short Line, is considering the building of a bridge across the San Joaquin at Pittsburg and building of a new line into Oakland via San Leandro, making possible the operating of main line trains through central Contra Costa, comes information that the unknown purchaser of extensive Berkeley waterfront lands including the Fleming Point property of the Mountain Copper Co., is none other than the Arthur Curtis James interests in the Western Pacific.

BATTLE ANTICIPATED

Taking these facts into consideration it is expected that a merry war may soon be launched between the two giant railroad interests, the objective being shorter routes and faster time between the bay cities and the common center of Sacramento.

Wesley M. E. To

On Next Sunday

Rally Day will be celebrated at the Wesley Methodist church next Sunday, according to an announcement made yesterday by the pastor, Rev. C. G. Lindemann. A program which will include promotion exercises will begin at 9:45 a. m.

SCOPE OF PROPAGANDA

When most people think of foreign propaganda all they visualize is merely the effort of certain foreign newspapers and foreign newspaper correspondents to bring about in America a state of mind favorable to the particular country which they represent.

Those of us who think that foreign propaganda goes no farther than this would do well to read the series of articles written by Arthur Seares Henning, the well known correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, who has made an exhaustive study of the subject and who shows that the grand scheme is not a sentimental one but a well organized movement to internationalize the United States and to bring it under European influence for European and not American benefit.

Speaking of only one of these international agencies, one which is endowed for millions of dollars and headed by a well known American educator, Mr. Henning declares that its real purpose is to get the United States into the League of Nations. To promote internationalism it has established "international mind alcoves" in ninety public libraries and is beginning to develop such "alcoves" for children. The books in these "alcoves" are of course of the kind arguing for internationalism as against Americanism and there is no way to estimate the influence they have in this direction.

The same institution of course also advocates the cancellation or reduction of the foreign debts thus as Mr. Henning puts, "entailing a further burdening of American taxpayers, all for the purpose of allying irritation of European countries at the necessity of paying their debts. The reduction would involve a sacrifice by the American taxpayers such as the British government has declared it would not impose upon British taxpayers, however much its debtors might be irritated, Britain being sunk apparently beyond redemption in that "national mindedness" which the endowment is striving to transmute in America into an enlightened "international mindedness."

This is only one of many agencies which are conducting internationalist activities in America. These activities should all come under the classification of foreign propaganda. Their purpose is the breaking down of time-honored American policies and placing the United States in a position economically subservient to Europe. Of course they do not admit this and cloak their real intention under high-sounding platitudes about world peace and international brotherhood. But the serpent is there just the same, and the American people will do well to look out for it.

If Mussolini had been born a baseball player instead of a politician he would doubtless be giving Babe Ruth a real run for his money.

How To Earn Money!

I have an idea for a patent. Will you kindly inform me how I can find out if there is a similar article already patented or with a patent applied for? Do you think it advisable for me to consult a patent lawyer? Lena T.

It is necessary to have a patent attorney proceed to take out a patent. Patent attorneys are not necessarily lawyers in the accepted sense of the term, but they are men licensed by the government to do work of the patent office. They are conversant with all the ins and outs of taking patents, and you can rely upon their judgment. They will be able to tell you whether such a patent has already been granted.

Where can I get envelopes to address at home?
Go to the big mimeographing and duplicating concerns. Select a place or places near home, as you will find that such work calls for the carrying of heavy loads.

A dear old friend of our family (a shut-in) makes beautiful patch quilts and I want to help her dispose of same. How can I go about this? Bertha A.
I would advise you to try the Women's Exchange or specialty shops.

Mrs. Sarah Spence will answer all questions on "How To Earn Money at Home." Address her care of this paper.

CLEAN POWDER PUFF

How clean is your powder puff? How long do you carry yours? These are the frankly personal questions which the Bellevue-Yorkville Health Demonstration of New York city asks every young girl, whether she is a college student, stenographer, actress or debutante. According to actual count made by trained bacteriologists there are 20,000 bacteria (germs) clinging to the average girl's powder puff to be used on a "clean face." Many of the bacteria examined were found harmless, but more were of the type that could easily infect skin and cause disfiguring skin disease. Powder puffs may be easily washed and fresh ones which come in sterilized wrappings may be purchased cheaply. No girl would think of wiping her face on a dirty towel, neither should she rub dirty powder into her pores.

CUTEST THING BABY EVER SAID

My small son was given a top bank which had a combination lock. One day I found him studiously twisting the dial.

"Mother," he inquired, "what's the address of this bank?"

HE KNEW

A tramp called at a country home the other day and asked for some food. As the lady of the house refused to give him any, and as the man would not go away, she told him she would "call her husband."

"Oh, no, you won't," replied the tramp, "because he ain't in."

"How do you know?" asked the woman.

"Because," answered the tramp, "as he slid toward the sidewalk, 'a man who marries a woman with a face like yours is only home at meal times.'"

DREW PINK LINE

"There's a limit to all things," said Ichabod. "I don't mind washing the dishes; I don't mind feeding the cat; I don't mind mending my own clothes. But I'll be turned if I'll wear pink ribbons on my nightgowns to fool the baby."

What Your FACE TELLS

©c. 1927- by Betty Morrison PSYD.

THE VIRTUE AND VICE BEHIND THIN LIPS

Do the lines of your mouth suggest and reveal merriment and good nature or self pity, ill-humor and an ugly disposition? What story is your life writing on your lips?

Such a mouth as the one in this illustration, with thin, compressed lips, bespeaks force of character and a determination to succeed. When this mouth closes tightly there is no further chance for argument. You cannot easily move an individual of this type after a decision is made. A person whose lips are thin has a natural admiration for talent. He has little patience with dull minds and is not sympathetic with people who know less than he.

He has a quick and revengeful temper when he is antagonized, for argument. You cannot easily deceive, being penetrating and shrewd. Possessing tact, he can frequently win over the less astute individual.

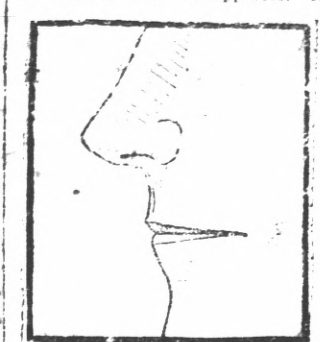

As has long been known, these thin lips indicate coldness. An individual with such a nature is not swayed by emotions. He is the intellectual, not the emotional type. But he is usually fair-minded and strives to be just in making decisions which involve other people.

His love nature is very much hidden. One cannot tell how deep his affections are.

Thin, compressed lips tell of a secretive temperament. Look at the captain of industry who has won out against all odds. He will frequently have these thin, compressed, determined lips.

One who has this nature is his own worst enemy. He cannot enjoy life as does the warm affectionate person. This face in the illustration tells of negative thinking, general discord and unhappiness. If your mouth is like this, you should loosen the tense muscles by eliminating negative thoughts.

Anger, jealousy, hatred and fear are mental conditions which are registered in the face, making the lips appear thin and pinched and the mouth lined and furrowed. If you wish beautiful lips, you should keep a cheerful mental attitude. Complain less. A change of thought will alter the expression of your mouth. Are you hard tense, at times cruel? Look in the mirror, which is a good friend. It will tell you the truth.

Your mouth is an index of character. If your thoughts are selfish and cold your mouth will become thin and pale and closely drawn. When the mouth is cold and thin, with a tendency to turn down at the corners, the mirror tells a story of suspicion, hateful mental attitude. If your thoughts are loving, and kind your mouth will grow full, warm, expressive and well-proportioned.

Brown is to be one of the outstanding fall fabric shades. Almost all of the darker browns will be used as well as well-brown tones and reddish browns. Shores, hosiery and handbags of brown will be important, due to the vogue for costume harmony.

John R. is making marriage men think lightly of their obligations as husbands. You are making it easier for them to take out other girls who may be less scrupulous than you. And you are probably helping them to become first rate liars. Do you think a husband tells the wife about these "harmless" flirtations? Even if she "understands" she is liable to laugh at him, and no man enjoys this. If she doesn't understand, then it's no laughing matter. So the chances are that he trumps up some other explanation for his absence from home. You might be a wee bit conscious of stricken Doris, if you could picture the wife cooking dinner at home and putting the kiddies to bed, while Fred's Husband laughs and chats with you in an attractive restaurant.

What price pleasure? Here is a young husband who is throwing life's priceless treasures away; who is selling his birthright for a mess of pottage. He says he is willing to pay the penalty for his wrongdoing, yet he balks at the first payment.

Says the MAN: I am a young married man, age 20. My wife is 17. We have been married two years and have a little girl aged six months. She is the sweetest baby I have ever seen. I have a good job with hopes for advancement and a nice apartment. But I am dissatisfied with married life. I like to run around with other women, drink and all that. I know I will be sorry some day, but I am willing to pay the penalty.

Really I don't know what advice you are seeking from me. Is it that you wish me to say that you are right in your desertion of your wife and baby? Your letter is somewhat contradictory. You say you are willing to pay the penalty—but have you stopped to figure out just what that penalty is going to be? And are you sure you're going to get your money's worth? Why, John, you're already balking at the first payment, the loss of your baby. My what a price you're going to pay before you get through! I'm afraid you've made a bad bargain with fate. So far as material things go I'll bet you are keen enough about seeing that you get your money's worth. A few years of doubtful pleasures, a few "wild times," you are willing to pay with years of loneliness, tears, failure, disgrace. Before you make your choice make sure you're going to be willing to pay the price. I feel immensely sorry for the girl who put her faith in you and whom you are treating so shamefully.

Oldfield finally completed his adjustments, put on the pair of goggles without any cap, and climbed into the seat of the racing car.

"I'm going to try to get it up to sixty, Henry," he stated, turning to the tall, lean man.

Bob gasped again. Gosh! That must be the famous Henry Ford. It was almost too much, Bob thought, to be standing so close to such celebrities—and the very men with whom he wanted to work. And here they were, talking about getting sixty miles an hour out of a car.

Why, Oldfield might be killed in the attempt, the bang of the gun so fast. But he saw Henry Ford nod and take out his stop-watch.

Oldfield motioned for his mechanics to crank the car. There was a loud spluttering, the bang of a back-fire, and off went the machine. It seemed to go like the wind—almost flying. Bob held his breath for those few seconds that the car went spinning around the track. And as Oldfield returned to the goal the mechanics sent up a cheer. He had broken all records. He had put the car up to sixty an hour.

The incident gave Bob much to think about when he returned to his boarding house that evening, tired and happy, to write to Rose. He told her all the events of the day, and explained that the following morning he was going to her father's letter of introduction to Haynes and have a talk with him. And if the letter was a little short on love and a little long on mechanics, who can blame the boy? Even Rose was not loathe to forgive him, for she realized, because of her deep and tender feelings for him, how very strong was his devotion to the cause of progress.

Bob presented his letter to Haynes, as he had planned, and the two sat long together. Bob told the inventor of his work and showed him his ideas, which he had sketched out in Maple City. The great man listened with interest. It was through such enthusiasm as Bob showed that inventions had come into being. Haynes had sympathy with any of the young people who were anxious to help the cause along. And Bob's knowledge of machinery was certainly not a drawback.

Haynes suggested that he place Bob in his own factory and allow him to help build the cars that he loved. It was the long-looked-for opportunity. Bob was willing, anxious, to work anywhere, any place, just so that he could gain experience and further his knowledge of machinery.

And so he took his place, a few mornings later with the other mechanics and began the assembling of cars. At that period the process was slow and painful—an unbelievable contrast to the swift speed with which the factories today turn out automobiles.

Bob worked on he was finally allowed to inspect the finished machines and pass them on. And it was this work, as well as the intelligent use of his brain that led up to his work as mechanic to those who set speed records and broke them.

But it was not long before the racing instinct, which he had certainly inherited from his father, began to assert itself. Bob was allowed to make time records on the factory track. The thrill of the air flying past, the motor burring beneath, added zest to this phase of his work, and it was soon that Bob began entering races in competition with other acknowledged speedsters of the day. He drove with abandon, with utter lack of care for his own safety, and always in a red car. And before long the "Red Demon" began to be heard of and talked about.

CHAPTER XVII
A few days after Rose had experienced her first walk home from an automobile ride she saw Hank Armstrong wandering along the street. From the porch of the Robins residence she could watch the shambling figure plodding slowly towards nowhere in particular. Her heart went out to the pathetic old man. After all, he was Bob's father, and certainly he had suffered from his head, and always been cruel. Perhaps she might be able to effect some sort of reconciliation between the two. She knew that Bob and his father did not correspond, and some news of the boy and his success might soften his father's heart.

So when Hank reached the gate of the Mayor's home, Rose left her chair and started toward the top of the steps. Hank's head was bowed, but the sight of the familiar ground caused him to lift his face.

"Oh, Mr. Armstrong," Rose called from the porch. "Wait a minute, please." She ran down the steps and out to the gate.

As Hank paused, Steve Bentley sauntered by, and when he saw Rose coming out, he leaned against the fence rail to wait for her. Hank frowned, as he recognized Rose. To him she was the daughter of the friend who had, according to Hank's way of thinking, deserted him along with all the rest of his acquaintances. And he immediately assumed the defensive, as though fearing the possibility of an attempt to reunite him with his father. The sight of the girl brought bitter memories of his son. Once he had hoped that the two—but no! That was all past, now.

"O, Mr. Armstrong," she smiled eagerly. "I've just had a letter from Bob. You should be proud of him." At the mention of his son's name the old man's head came up. He slipped tightly, and the picture of that morning in the office flashed through his mind. For a moment a wave of sadness and regret passed over him. But it left him high and dry on the sands of unforgiveness. He shook his head.

"Yeh!" He turned to go, refusing to be interested.

"He's your son, and he wants to hear from you," Rose pleaded.

The old man softened. Yes, after all, Bob was his son, and there was no reason why the two couldn't be friendly. He had been a bit harsh Bob out of his own home. Perhaps, after all—

Famous Director of Dance Orchestra Refuses to Play Jazz

Louis Lilienfeld Plays Dance Music Twenty Years Without Jazz

New York City—Modern jazz finds no champion in Louis Lilienfeld, director of the Hotel Biltmore Orchestra who is playing modern music as he played twenty years ago. Lilienfeld holds the record in this jazz-mad age—he has played every day for the last twenty years, and never in that time has he played jazz. The Biltmore director is vehement in his sweeping veto on jazz.

"Jazz takes beauty and grace out of dancing and substitutes a physical clownishness that is awkward and ugly," declares Lilienfeld. "Worse than this, it makes dancing a sexy thing unfit for a dance floor."

Lilienfeld grows eloquent over the beautiful old-fashioned waltzes, and gives enthusiastic attention to new dance numbers that retain the swinging melody of the old tunes. That he has many ardent supporters is evidenced by the crowds that come to dance at the Biltmore. You'll find young and old there. Though sometimes the youngsters go on to a night club for a dizzy whirl.

MARION DAVIES IN DUTCH FILM AT RICHMOND

"The Red Mill," Marion Davies much-heralded new starring vehicle, and the film version of the famous stage hit by Victor Herbert and Henry Bloom, lived up to all its promises when it opened last night at the Richmond Theatre. The new Cosmopolitan vehicle proves that comic opera is not abandoned on the stage in favor of jazz, still has its charm, and that the drama of the lightness plays of yore is just as gripping as the drama of any other story.

Incidentally, it shows Marion Davies in a new role, a role different from any she ever attempted; more alluring, more charming, and what is of more importance to audiences, probably the most entertaining in her history. Any talk of new faces on the screen doesn't apply to Marion Davies—every role she gives the screen is a new face so far as she is concerned.

Miss Davies' whimsical comedy talents find a ready opportunity in the new romance of the Land of Dykes, she romps through a charming role in pigtails and in wooden shoes; dainty as a painted figure on a bit of Holland china; she does some acting that reaches the heights of genius in the dramatic moments with George Siegman, the villain of the new play; her love scenes with Owen Moore are romantically delicate.

A notable cast supports Miss Davies in the new picture; a story of love and adventure laid in Holland; a spectacular winter festival, a great church scene, a stirring adventure in boats on a canal in the huge Dutch village erected at the studios for the new picture; these are all interesting high lights in the production.

Owen Moore plays the Irish lover of the Dutch heroine, George Siegman, the villainous Uncle Willem and Karl Dane and Louis Fazenda make a hilarious comedy relief duo, aided and abetted by Sully Edwards, Russell Powell as the burgomaster, William Orland as the aged Dutch governor, Fred Gamblot as a queer Dutch innkeeper, and other well known players appear in the supporting cast, under the direction of William Goodrich. Other film features include "Buster's Girl Friend," a Buster Brown comedy; and a Fox News reel.

"BEAU GESTE" HOLDS BOARDS AT CALIFORNIA

Add one more title to the list of truly great motion pictures.

With the appearance of Paramount's "Beau Geste," which came to the California theatre last night it becomes necessary to enlarge the roll of screen masterpieces.

The magnificent broad sweep of this drama of the French Foreign Legion has never before been surpassed, nor has there ever been a finer theme more masterfully executed, than the devotion of three young brothers, and their smiling, unflinching sacrifice for each other.

The pounding, pulsing drama of "Beau Geste" is brought to the audience with shocking force in the opening scenes. A detachment of the Foreign Legion is shown on its way across the African Desert to relieve a fort which has been attacked by Arabs. Arriving, the commander of the relieving force finds no sign of Arabs, and his glass reveals a soldier standing at every embrasure in the walls, ready to fire on an enemy.

A bugle call elicits no response. Not a man stirs, and the gates remain closed. The major zooms close to the walls and discovers the alert sentries to be dead. This opens a mystery which deepens and quickens as the story progresses, reaching to England and there involving three of the main characters, the brothers enacted by Ronald Colman, Neil Hamilton and Ralph Forbes.

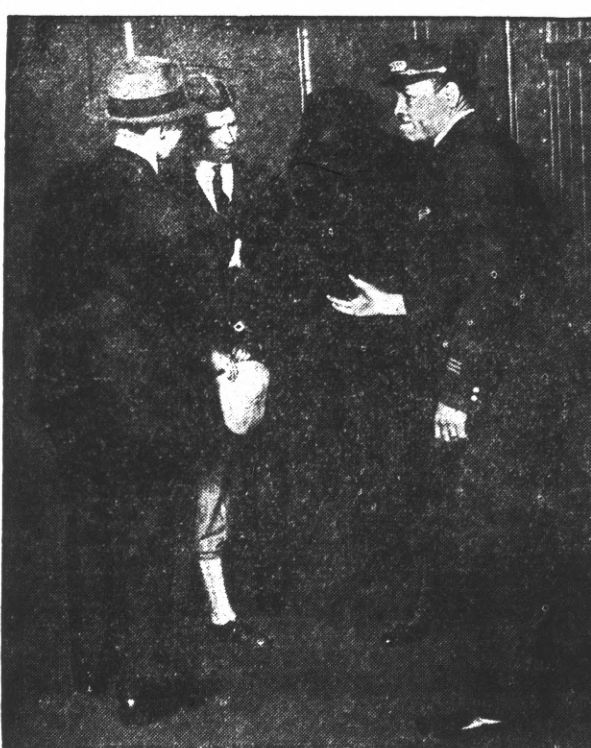

Colman, giving the finest and most romantic performance of his brilliant career, and Noah Beery as Sergeant Lejaune, "the cruellest beast and bravest soldier" in the Legion, dominate the action although Hamilton and Forbes are close rivals for screen honors.

None of the many noted artists in this play give anything but fine characterizations. William R. Powell, Alice Joyce, Mary Brian, Norman Trevor, Victor McLaglan, and the others all add to their popularity.

There are a thousand thrills in "Beau Geste," the sight of hundreds of colorful Touaregs sweeping across the sand plains, the revolt among the 40 Legionnaires, and their brave defense against the desert hordes, in addition to countless other pulse leaping moments.

There is no need to use words in lauding Herbert Brenson's direction of the play. Other film features include "Ko Ko Backs Up"; and International News.

Machine Gun On Speed Boat To Combat River Pirates

MARTINEZ, Sept. 28.—Twentieth century river pirates, who steal produce worth many thousands of dollars each year from wharves and depots on the islands along the San Joaquin and Sacramento rivers, will be faced with a real menace when the speedy launch purchased by Undersheriff William Veale for pursuit and pleasure dips in the water next month.

At present the vessel, thirty-five feet long and powered by a 100 horsepower motor, is tied up at the municipal wharf here undergoing repairs and receiving a new super-structure and appliances that will fit it for patrol work.

Included in the equipment is a machine gun that will be mounted in an advantageous position on the front of the boat and bullet proof glass of extra thickness in the cabin designed to offer a protection against bullets.

Veale recently purchased the launch, which formerly served as the captain's gig on a United States battleship, from the Mare Island navy yard. Sleeping accommodations for six persons are being built in the vessel, which can attain a speed of 22 knots an hour, giving it a necessary advantage over river thieves attempting to make a getaway.

When the launch is not in service as a pirate pursuit boat, Veale intends to use it as a pleasure craft.

With the purchase of a launch by the San Joaquin county sheriff's office several months ago, marine raiders who had been operating in the delta district near Stockton changed their base of operations to Contra Costa county island points, which were without such protection.

As a result ranchers suffered large losses, losing hundreds of sacks of produce that were piled along the islands awaiting transportation to shipping centers. Efforts to curb the thievery did not meet with success, since the marauders found a getaway comparatively easy in the absence of a police boat to pursue them.

"River pirates in this county's waters are doomed," Veale said yesterday. "We now have a launch speedier than any of their craft equipped with a machine gun, and manned by deputy sheriffs."

The launch, which has not yet been given a name, is expected to be ready for service in another month.

18 Percent Of Cal Students Have Car

BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 28.—Two thousand or approximately 18 per cent of the students at the University of California own automobiles according to figures compiled today. Male students lead the fair co-eds in the number of cars owned.

Twenty-six per cent of the male students claim ownership of their cars, while only 12 per cent of the women claim complete control over their vehicles. The remainder of the cars belong to "mother or dad."

AMERICAN WHO FLED FOREIGN LEGION FREED

PARIS, Sept. 28.—Bennett J. Doty, who enlisted in the French Foreign Legion under the name of Gilbert Clare and was court-martialed in Syria in August, 1926, being sentenced to eight years in prison, has been pardoned by the French government.

The visit of the American Legion to Paris was responsible for the early pardoning of Doty. Minister of War Painleve, confronted with the appeals of the Americans who were in Paris said, "We must let him go. He will go free."

Doty, whose home was in Memphis, Tenn., was the center of a vivid episode in the French Foreign Legion which took place last year during the French fighting with the Druses in Syria. He is 26 and is a veteran of the World War, having served with Battery E, 115th field artillery, 39th division.

Doty, while serving with the legion, left the French lines in Southern Syria, where a campaign was under way and was arrested with several companions on the charge of "abandoning his post before armed rebels." He was imprisoned in Damascus and for a time fears were entertained that he might be sentenced to death.

On June 7, Ambassador Herrick at Paris was instructed by Secretary Kellogg to intercede with the French government in behalf of Doty, who was stated to have made an excellent record in France as a soldier in the American army.

His trial took place at Damascus before a court-martial on July 16, and he was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment at hard labor.

An officer representing the government had demanded the death penalty, while another officer for the defense asked for a suspended sentence, describing the brave conduct of Doty prior to his defection, and pointing out that he had gained the Croix de Guerre.

Prior to his conviction Doty told a correspondent for the "monetary desertion" was caused, not by cowardice, but by acute homesickness.

MARTINEZ, Sept. 28.—Mattie Frances Hunt was the plaintiff in a $20,000 suit for damages filed here today against James Walker and his employer, Joseph Sedlarik. She charges in her suit that while she was riding in a car in the city of Richmond, September 10, 1927, Walker's car, through Sedlarik's negligent driving, collided with her machine causing her to be thrown through the windshield and cut and bruised about the face. The result of these cuts will be permanent injury to her face, she claims.

Bunions, Madam? If You Wore Shoes Big Enough

Mrs. D. is having trouble with her feet and complains because they are ugly and getting out of shape.

"For the past few weeks I have been getting a bunion on the outside of my large toe. I have been painting it with iodine but cannot see that it helps. I am very sensitive about my feet and wonder if there are any exercises which would help keep them in shape."

Bunions are ugly things, once they get started and then only the most strenuous measures will help them.

However, it is easy to guess what has caused yours. You admit that your feet are large and that you are sensitive about them. I'll be willing to bet that you are cramming your feet into shoes that are too small for you. That will cause bunions quicker than anything else.

Bunions come from pressure on a sensitive skin and joint, where the pressure is constantly annoying. If you would only wear shoes that were big enough you would never get a bunion. But now that you have one the only thing to do is to get it cleared up before it becomes serious. Get a pair of comfortable shoes, with moderate heels, and be sure that they are plenty broad enough to permit your foot to lie flat in its more normal position without crowding the toes one upon the other.

Very often an especially made arch supporter will help relieve pressure.

Rest rather than strenuous exercise at the present time is better for your feet. Give your foot a chance to get in good condition. That is what it needs.

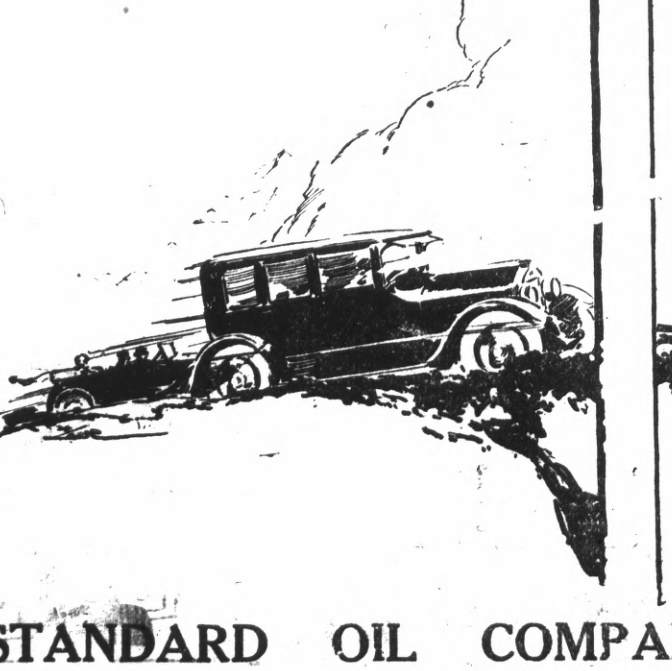

And when you have rid your foot of this irritation, be careful that you do not continue to cram your feet. It will only return. I think that it would not be well to use too strong a disinfectant on your foot, for it will only continue to irritate the skin, which is tender and bruised as it is. If the skin is actually broken, be careful of infection, especially from the dye of dark stockings.

WARRANT ISSUED FOR ARREST OF TEX RICKARD

ACTION TAKEN ON SHOWING OF FIGHT PICTURES

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—A telegraphic warrant for the arrest of Tex Rickard was sent to N. Y. today by acting U. S. Attorney Eugene Bennett. The N. Y. fight promoter is charged with conspiracy to transport films of the recent Dempsey-Tunney fight.

The warrant was issued following a raid on the Capitol Theatre where the initial showing was being made. William Cullen and Sol Pincus, executives of the show house were arrested on similar charges.

Simultaneously warrants were issued for six persons alluded to as "John Doe" and announcement was made that the matter would be laid before the federal grand jury.

Hearings on charges of conspiring to violate the interstate commerce statute prohibiting the transportation, receipt, and display of fight pictures, was set for October 12 by commissioner Crall.

An investigation was commenced to determine whether Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney are financially interested in the motion pictures. If they are shown to be connected with the films the fighters also will be arrested and tried, government agents declared.

RICHMOND GRID TEAM CLASHES WITH BERKELEY

The R. U. H. S. class B football squad clashes this afternoon with the Berkeley team on the latter's grounds. The local, lightweights are expected to give the Berkeley midgets a hard fought game.

Coch Ernie Barbieri is anxious to bring home a victory and is throwing a strong lineup into the play. Seven hard hitters will form the line and the backfield will be of equal strength. Most of the fellows are green at the game, playing football for the first time, but they show the fighting spirit and are developing into real stuff.

The meet will be played under handicap rules with the Nassau system of scoring. There will be a putting tournament and long distance driving, in addition to the regular play. The losing team will pay for dinner at the Berkeley club Friday evening. Awards will be made for low gross, low net, and high gross for each team.

Director's Cup Play On Tap

Ed Sullivan's SPORT WHIRL

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Originally it was the Battle of the Binocular. It has become overnight the Battle of the Stopwatch, the Scrap of the Swiss Movement. Fight fans have split over a split-second issue but Tunney is still champion. They paid off on Tunney, and though you argue until doomsday, the records show that Tunney still holds the title.

After conceding all of this, and after admitting that Tunney showed rare courage in the closing rounds after being flopped to the canvas, one question still clamors for an answer.

That question is briefly: "Why did Referee Dave Barry insist on delaying the start of the count with Tunney down, until Dempsey went to a neutral corner, and then immediately start counting out Dempsey in the following round without sending Tunney to a neutral corner?"

The moving pictures and stills of the fight show Barry starting a count over the fallen Dempsey with Tunney in midring. This was in the eighth round, when Dempsey was sent to the floor. Barry did not chase Tunney to a neutral corner, although in the previous round, the seventh, he refused to count until Dempsey had been herded across the ring. That used up four or five seconds that were extremely precious to Tunney.

Was it solicitude on Barry's part or natural excitement that twisted him up? The query comes from me, a Dempsey rooster, and Tunney, realizing that fact, may be justified in saying: "Consider the source."

DEMPEY'S LEGS HAVE GONE BACK ON HIM

I am so blinded by personal preference for Jack Dempsey as to fail to see that Dempsey has gone the way of all flesh. The legs have gone back on him. His stilts aren't what they used to be.

He has everything else that once marked him king of them all. Courage is still his, and his punch still travels with numbing accuracy. But the legs have lost their drive.

Like great ball players who retain hitting power and carry it into the minor leagues, even after their legs have slowed up, Dempsey can trace his decline to his underpinning. The spring has gone from his thigh.

You saw something similar to this when Tilden was beaten at Forest Hills by the Frenchman, Lacoste. Tilden, like Dempsey, put up a sensational fight, but at the crucial moment his legs refused to execute the orders flashed from his brain.

The legs are first to go in any competitive sport save polo. Only a mounted Milburn can scoff at the adage, "Youth must be served."

The foot soldiers of sport have no chiroprapist available to stave off that deadly weariness of the limbs, a weariness plainly manifest after they pass the thirtieth milestone.

TUNNEY'S SUPERB CONDITION WON FOR HIM

Tunney's manner of living, his superb condition, won for him in the Battle of the Swiss Movement. Granting that he got the benefit of a slow count, you can't deny that Tunney took full advantage of the lucky break.

His powers of recuperation are amazing. One moment he was glassy-eyed and his head lolled crazily on his shoulders as he mechanically gloved the lowest strand of the ring ropes.

He had been knocked out to all intents and purposes, if the vacant stare from those glassy orbs had been read aright.

And yet within a quarter of a minute, Tunney was back on his feet, still wobbly, true enough, but nevertheless in control of his faculties. He had shaken off three blows that would have felled a horse.

GOLDEN BEARS' PROSPECTS ARE GOOD FOR 1927

BERKELEY, Sept. 28.—Indifferent and rabid fans today are alike in the opinion that the California Bears will develop into a powerful team before the 1927 Pacific Coast Conference season is many weeks old.

The California victory over Santa Clara Saturday by a score of 14 to 6, closely contested as it was, clearly showed the Bears' potentialities.

The game revealed several things and set to rest many doubts of the Doubting Thomases who held forth in the Sunday papers before the contest opened.

First, the quality of the California line, reputed to be very weak at the center of the line, was proven.

Second, the Bears were shown to be well versed in the fundamentals. The poor tackling and unschooled slipping which lost games last year were gone.

And, Coach Price's backfield material, touted as the best since the days of Charlie Erb and the other backs of the Wonder Teams, gave the Bears an offensive punch that will bother any team on the coast.

It costs something to learn all this, however, for two California regulars were injured in the game. Waldo Weeth, guard and captain of the California Aggies last year, is out for the season. He sustained a dislocated vertebrae. Bennie Lom, star of last season's freshmen, who showed to such advantage Saturday, is also lost to the Bears for two weeks. He suffered a wrenched shoulder and possibly may be benched until after the St. Mary's game.

The defensive strength of the Bears is clearly shown by the figures on yardage gained. Santa Clara advanced the ball but 65 yards from scrimmage as against 130 yards for California. The Bears failed to gain but 10 times, while Santa Clara lost territory on 18 plays.

Fans had a look at only a small number of Price's backs, but those who were used appeared to good advantage. Dinty Evans, quarter, ran the team in a heady fashion and was a tower of strength on the defensive. Ralph Dougery, who started the game at fullback and Lom and Newman at halves, together with Evans, seemed to be the best combination. Dutch Clymer, quarterback at one half position, was not kicking well. His punts were nearly as high as they were long. He was jerked in favor of Lom, who, while he averaged but 35 yards, placed his kicks extremely well and saved the Bear much yardage.

Price started in last evening ironing out the wrinkles in preparation for Nevada next Saturday and St. Mary's the following weekend. He is perfecting a defense against forward passes, a department in which the Bears were weak Saturday.

Paralytic Stroke

Quickly Relieved

Berkeley, Calif., Aug. 21, 1927.

To Whom It May Concern:

For the benefit of other people and as a recommendation for Fong Wan, I frankly say that the Fong Wan Herbs have relieved my right arm which was paralyzed. For about two months I could not move that arm at all. Although I tried medical doctors and a chiropractic, my condition remained the same.

Acting upon the advice of a friend I tried the Fong Wan Chinese Herbs. After the first four days, I could raise my arm, and at the end of two weeks, my recovery was complete. The Fong Wan Herbs are nice, clean and fragrant. They are wonderfully compounded and put up in neat packages. I took them at home. For such marvelous and speedy relief, I am glad to give this testimonial.

SCHAPIRO CO. OCCUPIES ITS NEW OFFICES

B. Schapiro and company, realtors, are now occupying their new headquarters at 1126 Macdonald avenue. The new offices, while affording a more convenient location for clients are also equipped to give the company more and better facilities for handling its transactions.

The enlarging of quarters of the B. Schapiro company in Richmond was made because of their faith in the future of the city and to give their clients better service. The interior is well lighted and finished in southern gum, giving a cheerful effect. Many baskets of flowers wishing Corrie success in his new location are placed in the foyer of the offices.

Corrie, who has looked after the affairs of the company for some time, has built up the business to the present point where larger and more convenient quarters were made necessary.

New Berkeley Marin County 'Direct Auto' Ferry Planned

revealed that a test ferry run had been made from the Berkeley ship to California City in 23 minutes. The run to Sausalito would take slightly longer.

The Golden Gate Ferry Company now operates auto ferries between San Francisco and Sausalito, San Francisco and Berkeley, and San Francisco and Vallejo.

It was pointed out that slips at Berkeley and Sausalito could be easily added to the present terminal to care for more ferry boats for the proposed new service.

If California City were used, it would be necessary to build slips and a road to connect with Tiburon and thence on to the state highway at San Rafael.

EXPE VERDICT GIVEN

The Southern Pacific Company yesterday had established through a supreme court decision its right to continue its San Francisco-Alameda automobile service contested by the Golden Gate Ferry Company on the grounds that a certificate of public convenience and the court held that the Southern Pacific was not required to have such a certificate from the state railroad commission, inasmuch as it was operating vessels over the route when legislation governing certificates was enacted.

The majority decision was signed by Chief Justice Richards, Preston and Shenk. A dissenting opinion was written by Justice Langdon and concurred in by Justices Curtis and Seawell.

FORD RITES TO BE ON FRIDAY

(By Universal Service)

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 28.—Simple funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. in his late home, in Fordson, Detroit suburb, and seat of the major portion of the Ford industries, for John Ford, brother of Henry Ford, who died of heart disease early today. He was 62, a year and a half younger than the billionaire motor king.

Ford, who was president of the City Council of Fordson, attended a meeting of that body Tuesday night. He had not reached his home at 5 a. m. Wednesday and his eldest son, Robert, notified police.

After a short search they found Ford's automobile in front of a small cottage two blocks from his own home. The building recently had been sought by Ford. His body was found on an unmade bed in the only bedroom of the cottage. He had been dead several hours. The son said his father had had a series of heart attacks in recent weeks, but prior to that had been in the best of health.

Henry Ford came to the scene shortly after the body was found. John Ford is survived by Henry and William Ford, brothers, Mrs. Margaret Riddiman, a sister, his widow, a daughter Ethel, and his two sons, Robert and Clarence.

Youth Is Freed On Girl Charge

MARTINEZ, Sept. 28.—Alfred Garon, 27, who was taken into custody for questioning regarding his relations with a 16-year-old Pittsburgh girl during her two-day absence from home early this week, is free today following a corroboration of his story by the girl.

Garon told local police that he befriended the girl when he found her wandering on the streets Sunday. He said he gave up his room to the girl, while he found lodging elsewhere. The girl, he said, got some of her clothing when she left, and the presence of this in his room led to his arrest. When the girl told the same story to Probation Officer Thomas Boyer of Contra Costa county, Garon was released and the girl was returned to her home from the Detention home in Martinez.

Pelanconi, Cris Deaths Termed Accidental

Coroner Aubrey Wilson conducted two inquests in the Wilson and Kratzer chapel yesterday afternoon.

The jury found that Lincoln H. Cris came to his death due to fracture of the skull and oldium of the lungs sustained from being hit by a Key System Transit company car at Cutting boulevard and Pullman avenue last week. The jury exonerated the motorman, B. Larson, from all blame and held that the circumstances were accidental. Cris is said to have stepped in front of the car. He was removed to the Cottage hospital where he died.

According to the report of the jury into the circumstances of the death of William Pelanconi, an employee of the Richmond Pressed Brick company, deceased died due to fracture of the skull sustained by falling from his truck and hitting the pavement. Death was held accidental. Pelanconi is said to have struck his head while attempting to recover his hat which had fallen.

Y. M. D. Meets For Reorganization

The Young Men's division of the Y. M. C. A. met last night to reorganize. No election of officers was held but will probably occur at the next meeting of the organization.

A basketball team is being organized at the local Y and hopes are held that they will annex the state championship this year as they were second last year. There are approximately twenty players to draw from so a strong team is expected.
